to the world's largest online point-of-care clinical information service for vets

Vetstream Canis, Felis, Lapis and Equis are online encyclopaedias of point-of-care clinical veterinary information about the diagnosis and treatment of disease in companion animals (dogs, cats, rabbits and horses) to which vets in practice subscribe to access.

The content is provided and peer reviewed by 900 of the world's leading veterinary clinicians and comprise of more than 19,000 peer reviewed articles on diseases and their pathogens, diagnostic tests, medical and surgical treatments as well as breeds and owner factsheets, plus images, videos and heart sounds.

The content is categorised into 26 body systems and disciplines and cross linked to each other so that a veterinarian can move between all the relevant information about a particular patient that they might need help to diagnose and treat. Information can also then be communicated to the owner.

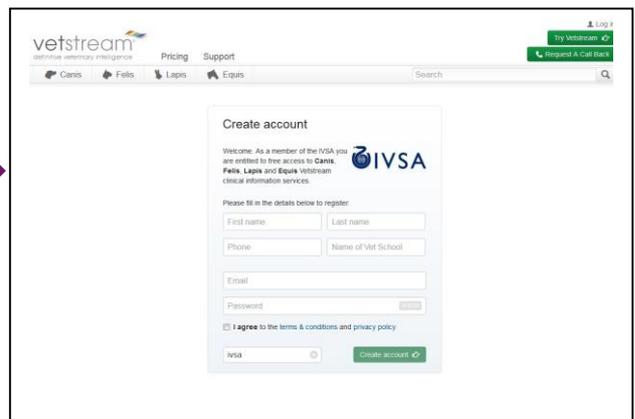

Each week new and updated information is added to the services so that you will continue to access the best point of care clinical information free of charge for as long as you are a student.

To access Vetstream Canis, Felis, Lapis and Equis you have two options:

1. When on the RVC Campus all you need to do is go to www.vetstream.com and select the content you require – this is because the RVC now has a licence for all staff and students to access our content from both the Royal College Street and South Mymms campuses.

2. When you are off site you can access our services on any internet enabled device free of charge until you graduate, via a username and password of your choice. To register for this all you need to do is visit the registration page at www.vetstream.com/register/ivsa and complete your details.

We really hope you enjoy accessing our content.
